ACCESSORY DWELLING UNIT ORDINANCES

BACKGROUND
Accessory dwelling units (ADUs) are also known as cottage housing, AADUs, DADUs, mother-in-law suites, granny flats, or casitas. Local governments throughout the Puget Sound region have a variety of regulations governing the development of ADUs.

IMPORTANCE OF ADUS
ADUs provide additional housing units that are compatible with the look and scale of single-dwelling development, make more efficient use of existing housing stock and infrastructure, and provide a mix of housing options. There are many benefits to ADUs including making it easier for first-time buyers to qualify (also, renting out an ADU can provide additional income), enabling seniors to age in place, and expanding options for multigenerational living.

ADUs can also be sustainable when employing green construction techniques or adding walkability to neighborhoods. Built Green has certified two cottage projects in the past few years and would love to certify more. Check out project one and project two.

UNPERMITTED ADUS
In the Seattle area, it’s estimated that three quarters of what look and function like ADUs were never permitted. Many homeowners do not legally permit their backyard cottages because of the lengthy bureaucratic process, the high cost of complying with code, and tax increases. Even when cities adopt ADU ordinances, most experience a negligible uptick due to:

- Excessive restrictions
- Size limitations
- Red tape

HOW TO INCREASE ADUS
- Remove owner occupancy requirements
- Reduce off-street parking requirements
- Waive permit and impact fees
- Increase flexibility in maximum floor area requirements or lot area coverage
- Relax setback requirements
MODEL CODE

MBAKS RECOMMENDS IMPLEMENTING CODE WITH THE FOLLOWING FEATURES:

- Allow two ADUs per primary dwelling unit:
  - either two AADUs
  - or one AADU and one DADU
  - or two DADUs
- No parking requirement
- No owner occupancy requirement
- Two ADUs can be joined within the primary dwelling structure or two DADUs outside the structure
- Allow ADUs up to 1,250 square feet, regardless of primary dwelling unit size or lot size
- Allow planning/development directors to allow for an increase in the size of ADUs in order to efficiently use all floor area
- Allow an AADU in all primary structures, regardless of size
- Allow a DADU on parcels that are 4,000 square feet or larger
- Expedited permitting process
- Waived or greatly reduced permit and impact fees
- Waived or greatly reduced utility connection fees
- Waived or greatly reduced street improvement requirements
- Flexible setback requirements
- No special requirements for the location of ADU entrances
- Design guidelines should be no stricter than those for single family homes, particularly in regard to façade modulation and exterior materials
- Pre-approved ADU/DADU plans to streamline process
- Allow and encourage panelized/prefab/modular ADU designs
- No requirement to notify adjacent property owners about proposed ADU projects if allowed under current code with no exemptions
- Allow air rights condominiums

ADU REGULATIONS ACROSS OUR REGION

ARLINGTON

One AADU or DADU allowed. An ADU can’t be established on any parcel smaller than 4,200 square feet. The gross floor area (calculated from finished wall to finished wall) of an existing structure, an addition, or new detached structure, converted to or constructed for the purpose of creating an ADU, shall not exceed 30% of the gross floor area of the primary single family structure (not including garage and/or detached accessory buildings) or 800 square feet (whichever is less). The total square footage of impervious surfaces on the lot (lot coverage) cannot exceed 35%. One additional parking space must be provided and owner occupancy is required in one of the two units.

BELLEVUE
One AADU allowed. DADUs are not allowed. AADUs can’t exceed 40% of the total square feet of the residence. They must be more than 300 square feet but not exceed 800. One off-street parking space is required. ADUs are not currently allowed in new construction (ADUs are only allowed in existing single-family dwellings that received their final inspection approval at least three years prior). The combined number of occupants in the primary residence and the ADU may not exceed the number allowed by the definition of “family,” Land Use Code (LUC) 20.50.020. The city’s Development Services will provide notice of the registration of the ADU to owners of property within 500 feet of the site. Owner occupancy is required in one of the two units.
